NOW THAT you had a few weeks to digest your tax bills, do they look any better?

Or are they like ours, just as gruesome as ever?

But the reactions to the tax bills that were received were predictable.

We haven't heard of a single soul who jumped with joy.

As always, it was "education" in the tax bill breakdown that took the biggest slice. "Education", of course, lumped all the school districts together.

We noted on our tax bill, for example, that "education" was five times the size of "city" in dollars.

The City of Saratoga has always made a big pitch about its low city tax.

Of course, the city officials soft-pedal the high assessed valuations in that city when they expound on the low, low rate. Mathematically it seems to work out the same way in the end . . . how much the taxpayer pays.

MAYBE THAT is why in a sadistic sort of way we enjoyed the quoted comment of a Saratoga resident that appeared in the San Jose paper.

This particular taxpayer's taxes rose $80 in one year and he was not very happy about it.

In fact he called it "ridiculous".

"We don't have any sidewalks or street lights. . . . We don't even have a police or fire department. . . I'm beginning to wonder what we're paying for!!"

They say you get what you pay for. . . But we are not sure how that works out in Saratoga's case.

"EDUCATION", of course, will always continue to get the major hunk out of the tax dollar, as long as the present property taxing system is in effect.

There seems to be a great deal of spinning-of-the-wheels in legislative circles of late in an attempt to find some relief for the over-burdened property tax payer. But so far the wheels have just spun.

Still "education" is our most important asset, from kindergarten through college. We expect to have to pay for it one way or another.

In recent months, a San Jose State College prof., Dr. John Gilbaugh, has sounded off about waste in tax-supported higher educational institutions in the state.

Whether one agrees or disagrees with Dr. Gilbaugh's philosophy is unimportant in our book. We believe we all should become more concerned with what is going on in the state colleges and universities.

They do happen to belong to us. They are not the sole province of any one group or clique.

LAST WEEK The Press published the entire speech of Dr. Gilbaugh.

Not because we believed necessarily in his charges but because we felt it was important for all of us to become interested in the higher

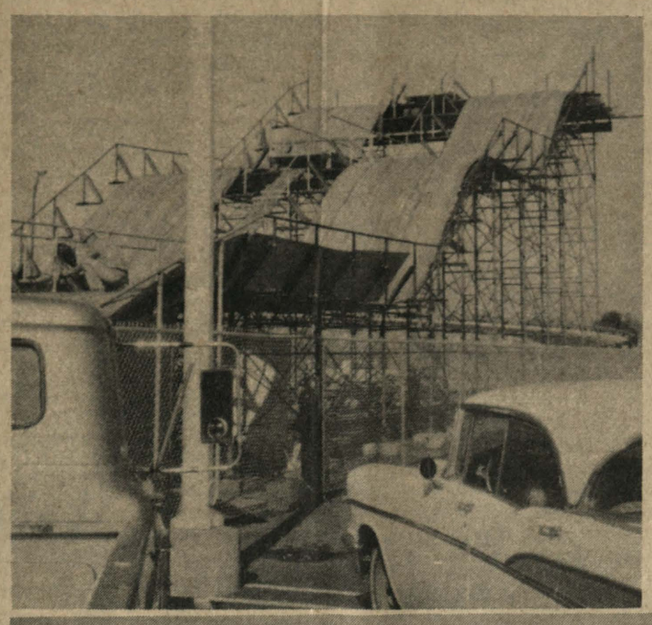
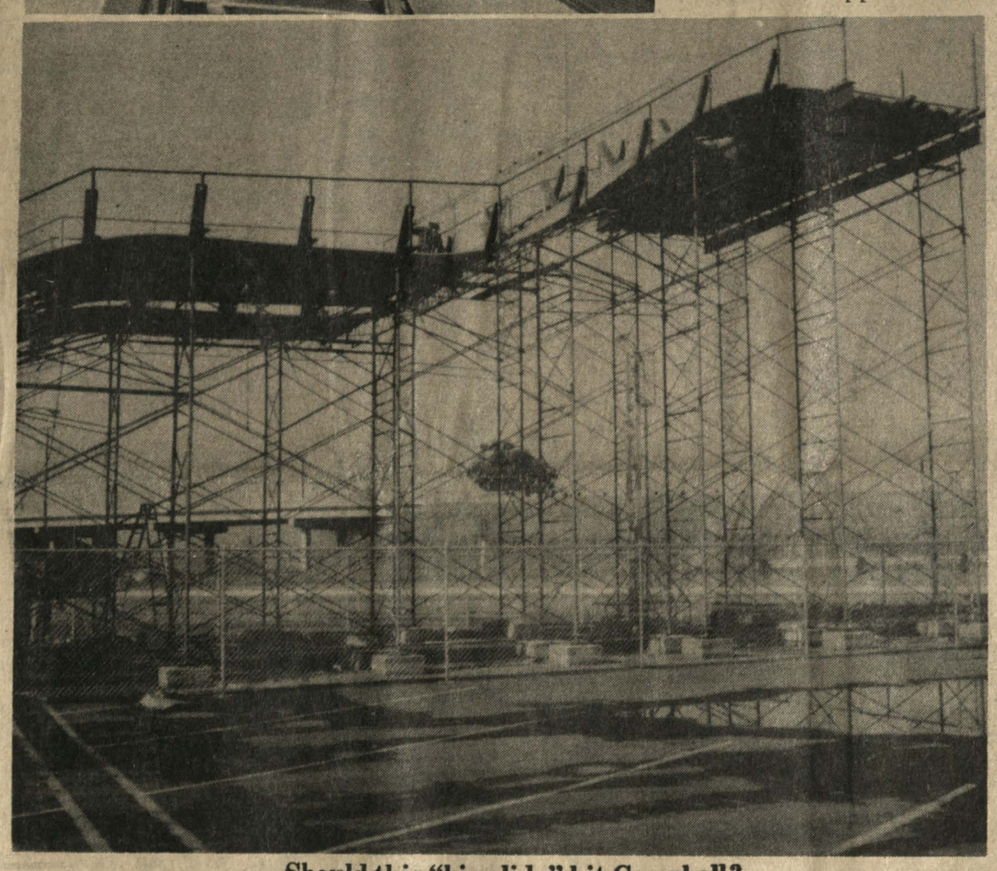
Structure towers 36-feet high

Planners face 'big slide' Monday





Should this "big slide" hit Campbell?

Whether a "recreational slide", made of metal and open scaffold type bracing rising 36-feet into the air, should be located on San Tomas Aquino Road adjacent to the Kirkwood Plaza Shopping Center will be question before the Planning Commission next Monday, Nov. 20.

Profit Motivated As-Associates of Menlo Park has submitted an application for a use permit and archiutural approval for the huge slide similar to the one located at Monterey Rd and Capital Expressway in San Jose as pictured.

In his application, LaVerne F. Foster, a general partner in the firm, claims that "One of the most attractive things about the slide is the fact that passer-bys can observe the sliders" and that the slide will draw shoppers and their children from a wide area outside of Campbell.

The slides will extend 142-feet in length with dips etc. and 12 human "sliders" will be able to scoot down the lanes at one time.

Six lanes are on either side of the stairway to the top.

According to the applicants, children under six will not be allowed to ride the "rugs" down unless accompanied by adults.

In addition to the "big slide", other actions before the commission include plans for a wholesale nursery at 1536 More Ave. (off Pollard) submitted by Abraham van Klaveren and a commercial building for Goodwill Industries at San Tomas Aquino Road near Campbell Ave.

Two industrial building plans will also be before the commission for approval. Cameo Development Co. 545 Westchester and Devlin Corp, 423 Salmar.

RAIN DROPS

Rain clouds on Monday and Tuesday of this week brought .26 inches of moisture to Campbell, raising the seasons total to .40 inches.

Last year at this time 1.52 inches had fallen.

C of C meets Thursday

Luncheon uses football theme

Campbell Chamber of Commerce members were just make-believe "49ers" and "Raiders" in the membership drive this week. But they will get the real low-down from representatives of the two professional football organizations at the monthly luncheon Thursday, Nov. 16, at Villa Felice.

Kay McFarland, whose number "26" is well known to followers of the "49ers" on the gridiron, is scheduled to relate some of the behind-the-scene activities of the current season pertaining to the "49ers".

Bob Blum, who has been affiliated with the Oakland Raiders since 1962 as their public relations man and radio announcer, will talk about the "Raiders" and their successes in the grid wars.

The winning team in the one-day membership drive that is taking place today (Wednesday) will be announced at the luncheon. New members who joined during the drive will be introduced.

Al LaPlante, membership chairman, "coached" the one-day blitz for new members. Connie Russo was captain of the "Raiders" and Arland Hatfield headed the "49ers".

The winning team in the membership drive will win a free trip by plane to Reno on Dec. 1. (The losers can also go along at $10 per

Campbell Ave. wins over Bascom

A majority of the councilmen on Monday night indicated that the long-awaited improvement project of Campbell Ave. that has been planned from Winchester to the railroad tracks would not be delayed in spite of a tempting new proposal to improve Bascom Ave. to the ultimate.

The City Council, however, agreed to hold a study session on the streets projects next Monday, Nov. 20 primarily to discuss this newest development brought about by the suggestion of the owners of the 34-acre Brynteson Ranch property at Bascom and Campbell.

Through the Coldwell-Banker, the real estate firm representing the owners, the city has been informed that the owners of the property would be willing to participate in an assessment district for the improvement of the portions of Bascom and Campbell Avenues that front the property.

Although appreciative of the new suggestion, and aware that it would be an attractive improvement to the city, a majority of the councilmen felt that the extra $120,000 cost to the city above present estimates would mean draining the gas tax fund to such an extent that the Campbell Ave. project would have to be deferred for at least another year.

An it was apparent from the councilmen's action, that the Campbell Ave. job would come first.

Captains lead "blitz"

CONNIE RUSSO (left), as captain of the "Raiders", and ARLAND HATFIELD (right), captain of the "49ers", headed their respective teams in a one-day blitz drive for new members of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Coach" Al LaPlante (center), membership chairman, directed the day's operations.

Today at 4 p.m. reports are to be tabulated at the C of C office, 100 W. Rincon. The winning team gets an expense-paid trip to Reno on Dec. 1. A goal of 60 new members has been set.

A successful membership drive is of paramount importance, economically, to the Chamber of Commerce, the directors have emphasized, if the C of C is to carry on its activities.

City makes second run at police car bidding

Purchase of four new police cars for the city was deferred Monday night by the City Council in order to allow a new series of bids to be submitted. The city hopes the new edition will be more favorable budget wise and also will include a bid from Plymouth, missing from the list Monday night.

In order to clear the decks for the new bidding, the council on Monday rejected all three of the bids (Chevrolet and Ford) that were submitted on the basis that they exceeded the budget allocation.

It was indicated that the new bids might be on hand for the next council meeting, Nov. 27. City Attorney Joe Bonacina ruled that advertising for bids was unnecessary and that the agencies interested would merely have to be contacted.

The council's action to reject the three bids on Monday came after considerable discussion over the various alternatives available to the city and also considerable conjecture over the relative merits of various cars.

City Manager Bob Stephens and Police Chief John Morgan explained to the council

'Emergency' landing

Wild duck pays "visit"

A confused, wild, black duck on Saturday morning made an emergency landing on the cover of the swimming pool of the Herb Bykowski residence, at 310 W. Hamilton Ave.

Apparently from the air the plastic cover appeared to be a lake to Mr. Duck so he zoomed in.

The duck, a friendly sort of bird, appeared to enjoy the company of members of the Bykowski family who took turns feeding him bread crumbs during his stay.

He took off once during the afternoon but after circling a nearby orchard came back to his temporary pad.

But at dark he took off again and didn't return.

Crisis on higher education

Local businessman refutes charges of professor

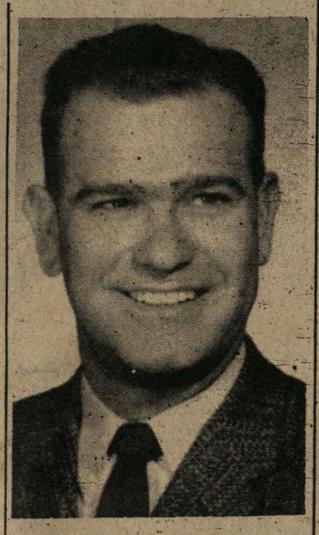
Dr. John W. Gilbaugh, professor of education at San Jose State College and former dean of the college, in speeches before two local service clubs and the Chamber of Commerce, has made a scathing indictment against the state college and university systems of our state.

His speech entitled "The Mounting Crisis in California Higher Education" was printed in its entirety in last week's issue of The Press.

This week, Emerson M. (Doc) Arends, owner of the Campbell Lumber Co., a member of the San Jose State College Advisory Board and a long-time civic leader, offers a rebuttal to some of the charges made by Dr. Gilbaugh.

Arends' interest in education is self-evident. He has been a member of the Campbell Union High School board of trustees for 14 years.

A graduate of San Jose State, where he was student body president, he has long been active in the college alumni circles.



E.M. (DOC) ARENDS
--In Rebuttal

Arends not only is aware of the changes that have been taking place in higher education but, as a prominent businessman he is also cognizant of the load that the taxpayers carry in support of education in this state.

The Campbell Press is pleased to present this "other side of the coin".

Obviously there is a "crisis" in higher education, but the "crisis" can be subjected to different interpretations.

And it has become increasingly apparent, that this "crisis" is of vital concern to all

...G.V.

By EMERSON M. ARENDS

Dr. John Gilbaugh's treatise, as presented in last week's Campbell Press, carried a poignant title. It is true indeed that there is a mounting crisis in California's higher education.

Those individuals in our state who are involved, professionally, and the lay persons who have followed the dramatic and overwhelming demand for educational services and facilities, have long recognized the factors at work which have created, and are creating at this moment, that crisis.

To those individuals deeply concerned about that crisis, it must be said that the debilitating effects of the tenure law, the possibility of collective bargaining in our schools, the threat of strikes, and the erosion of constituted authority present a spectre not unlike the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse of Biblical lore.

Yet, these topics have been discussed and will continue to be discussed, in both a very real and philosophical manner, and, it seems to me, must be left to the collective talents of constitutional lawyers, political scientists, social scientists and, if you will, politicians, be they ersatz or genuine.

"PRODUCTIVE CITIZENS"

At the outset, I would say that I am one of those "productive citizens" who Gilbaugh professes to "protect" from the "crippling tax burden." The tax bills I received two weeks ago attest to the fact that I am indeed a very "productive citizen." And only a fool would like to see his taxes wasted.

Increased efficiency is something for which we in business constantly strive. But we also know that we must be practical and face the problem in a realistic manner. The view from ivy covered tower of academe inhabited by Gilbaugh is entirely different from mine.

I detect in his comments a peculiar insensivity to the problems encountered in modern educational concepts. I detect more "sour grapes" in his approach as a FORMER administrator than a deep seated desire to help cure the sickness he says pervades our college campuses.

I submit that the crisis we face is not that described by Gilbaugh but this: The competitive posture of the California State College System has slipped so badly that we not only cannot entice adequate faculty to this great system but are losing faculty to colleges outside our system.

The logical question, then, is "why?".

To anwer that question, we must first analyze the main corpus of Gilbaugh's pronouncement. When we boil his comments down to the salt of pure content we find four basic premises, either expressed or implied.

FOUR BASIC PREMISES

1. Increase the teaching load to de-decrease the number of teachers.
2. The cost of instruction is too high.
3. Too much money is being spent on operating expense.
4. California is educating too many students at too great a cost to the tax payer.

Gilbaugh admits in his text that 1500 faculty vacancies went unfilled. The reason they went unfilled is that we simply are not competitive.

Let us analyze his basic precepts.

1. Why can't the teaching load be increased?

Gilbaugh suggests a 20% increase, from four courses to five courses. The appropriate answer is that the quality of education would suffer. Our sophisticated society demands sophisticated education.

It has been said that by the year 2000, 90% of the work force of this country will be earning its living in industries not yet known doing jobs not yet described. The modern professor must run fast to keep up with his subject matter.

His work week (which repeated studies show averaged 50-55 hours) cannot be measured by the 12 hours he spends in the class room any more than the lawyer's time can be calculated by the number of hours he spends in the court room.

Gilbaugh, practical man that he professes to be, says "baloney". Quality, he seems to say, is a flexible term that can be stretched to infinity so that the professor never gets to the class room.

All right, take the hard headed, classical economic argument of supply and demand. Approximately 80% of colleges and universities require professors to teach four courses or less. I would refer Gilbaugh to the recruiting page from the American Historical Association Newsletter, Volume V, No. 1, dated October, 1966. Of the 17 colleges listing teaching load, 10 were 9 hours or less, 2 were 9-12 hours, 5 were 12 hours.

The answer to the salient question is found in the answer to this one: Who will get the professors, the 15 hour (5 course) school, the 12 hour (4 course) school, or the 9 hour (3 course) school?

I maintain that our California colleges would be placed completely out of contention in the arena should the load be increased to 15 hours.

2. Is the cost of instruction too high?

Gilbaugh says yes. But, compared to what?

In addition to the factor of class load as mentioned above, two other factors that most impress the prospective teacher are: Student-teacher ratios (the number of students per class) and salaries.

I would refer Gilbaugh to the New York State University System (the one system of higher education in the world that most resembles our California State College System) student-faculty ratio. Their staffing formula calls for an average ratio of 12 to 1. The median class average in the California System is 22 to 1.

If the New York State formula were to be applied here, San Jose State College alone would have gained an additional 342 staff members in 1966. And, it is a recognized fact in educational circles that the smaller the class size, the better the instructional program. Small seminar type classes produce more individualized teaching.

As regards salaries, let us compare once again the New York State System with the California State College System, using the 1966-67 school year as a base. The figures below are maximum salaries:

	California	New York
Professor	16,212	22,000
Assoc. Professor	12,696	17,600
Assist. Professor	10,044	14,250
Instructor	9,120	11,950

Startling, to say the least. But now the picture begins to clear. We are not competitive.

3. Is too much money being spent on operating expenses?

No.

Drawing comparisons between San Jose State College and expenses incurred by 60 comparable institutions over the country we find, in 1966-67:

	San Jose	60 Colleges
General Administration	3.1	14.6
Instruction	72.9	49.8
Library	6.2	4.8
Student services	6.8	9.2
Plant operations	9.6	16.4
General Institutions	1.4	4.1
	100.0	98.9

Here we see that San Jose State College's operating expenses are notably less than those of other colleges and universities.

4. Is California educating too many students at too great a cost to the taxpayer?

The answer is an emphatic no.

The Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education study of 1964 reveals that of the 13 western states, California stands third from the bottom in the number of undergraduate degrees (A.B., B.S., etc.) granted per 100,000 population.

Contrast, if you will: California 216.2, Oregon 331.1, Colorado 371.1, Utah 497.4. Even the rural and relatively poor state of Idaho, with 218.1, ranks above California.

SUMMARY

So, in summary we come to these conclusions: The number of faculty to be recruited has sky-rocketed, the competitive salary gap has steadily widened, the quality of newly recruited faculty is continually decreasing, and the number of faculty leaving each year is increasing.

There lies the crisis.

Were responsible leaders of our state to follow the Pied Pipings of Professor Gilbaugh, we most assuredly would find ourselves unable to provide the necessary educational opportunities for California's growing college eligible youth.

We would find ourselves out of step, out of date, out of time and, like Don Quixote, tilting at wind mills.

This week on the editorial page, Emerson (Doc) Arends, a member of the Campbell Union High School Board for 14 years and a prominent local businessman and civic leader, answers the charges made by the college prof.

We urge you to read Doc's rebuttal... It is particularly well done.

He refutes Dr. Gilbaugh's charges in an articulate and literate manner, point by point.

So there you are...

We hasten to add, however, that both Gilbaugh and Arends had one point of agreement.

They both conceded that a "crisis" in higher education does exist.

But you might say that their approach and interpretation to the "crisis" are a wee bit different.

RECENTLY we reported to you about ALBERT R. GOULD, of 167 Rosemary Lane, who has made an enviable reputation as a horticulturist, including the designing of the grand prize garden at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915.

What brought him to our attention was when he delivered a letter from the Lord Mayor of Portsmouth, England to Mayor Ed Rogers of Campbell.

Gould met the Lord Mayor when last summer he visited England for the first time in 53 years.

Gould was elected "Fellow Royal Historical Society" in 1911 and is entitled to carry the initials "F.R.H.S." after his name and he has had a distinguished career in his chosen profession.

As we reported, he was trained in the Royal Botanical Gardens, Kew, England, and "Kew" graduates are scattered around the globe wherever there are gardens.

Naturally during our conversation, Gould had occasion to refer to "Kew" many times.

Now "Kew" and "Q" sound exactly alike.

So we mentioned to Mr. Gould that in California when he talked about "Kew" maybe he should spell it out.

"Q" in California (especially in police circles) does not mean a botanical garden.

On the other hand, maybe San Quenton does have gardens.

JIM DUFFIELD, now C of C manager at Desert Hot Springs and who held the same position in Campbell for two years, was back in town for a few days last week on a brief "vacation."

"Big Tiger" Duffield has been going such a fast pace in that desert spa where he recently staged-managed that city's first convention that his bosses, the city council and C of C directors, directed him to take a respite from his duties.

They figured he was working too hard. Chances are he was. Jim seems to have just one speed.

So he visited Campbell and spent his "vacation" on the go trying to touch all the bases.

After all, he had been gone from here four months and he had some catching up to do. And knowing Jim, he "worked" at it and at his regular pace--full speed ahead.

Naturally he spent some time with Len Edholm, his successor at the Campbell C of C for Jim has a sincere interest in the Campbell Chamber of Commerce which we hope he never loses.

We'll remember Jim's visit for another reason, our back.

While at breakfast with him and a few others, we made a quick turn in our chair and we felt a twinge.

Since then we have nursed a sore back.

What's revolting is that we played 18 holes of golf the day previously... and no problem... could this mean that we should give up breakfast for golf.

But Jim's visit was like a refreshing desert breeze.

It was even worth our backache.

All told, 200,000 Northern Californians tucked away $41.3 million in the holiday accounts with Bank of America, while Southern Californians accumulated $42.6 million in 218,000 accounts.

with "Charlie" Gubser

Now that Secretary McNamara has finally admitted that Russia has the capability to place a nuclear bomb in orbit, I thought the following excerpts from a speech I delivered on the Floor of the House on Oct. 10, 1963, would be interesting.

"Military history reveals the incessant search by one party for an advantage over another. Always the second party reacts to an advantage....and offensive developments have been followed by a defense against them. The spear caused the development of the shield, and the airplane resulted in anti-aircraft weapons. The missile and atomic energy resulted in the anti-missile missile and the principle of deterrence!

"Throughout history the slightest shift in a stalemated balance of power has been decisive. In fact, it has been said that with complete disarmament, the decisive weapon of world war III could be a thing as simple as a dagger.

"We have been met by the Russians in atomic power, we have met and surpassed them in missile power, and we have now reached the point where we are basing our policy upon the principle of nuclear stalemate. We are now at the point where one simple breakthrough can be decisive.

"A year ago in Cuba the installation of a few dozen missiles and the deployment of 12 or 13,000 men upset the balance of power and almost caused a nuclear war. What would a breakthrough today by the Russians, such as the utilization of their present ability to place a bomb in orbit, do to this delicate balance of power? Could it not be decisive?

"Some say it is senseless to talk about a bomb in orbit because it is easier to do the job with an ICBM. We have a defense against ICBM's, but there is no known defense today by which the United States can intercept an orbiting bomb. At this time we know that Russia has the thrust to orbit a bomb with extra fuel for maneuvering. By accelerating or decelerating at will, the orbital pattern of such a bomb can be changed to deceive any defense now under development. To the present, our national military space objectives have not included the development of a defense against such a threat.

"Suppose we allow the Russians this breakthrough, and do not develop a defense. Is it not possible and probable that is could be decisive? Do we dare believe that Russia will not utilize this phychological advantage at some future conference table?...I submit that we are allowing a military space gap to develop, which is tantamount to inviting national suicide."

In rebuttal, a respected Democratic Member of the House Space Committee implied that my argument was like swatting "gnats when there are bigger things....". Other defenders of Administration policy pointed to large expenditures for military space research and predicted that "if there is ever a system of offense...., we would...have prefected a system of defense."

The foregoing debate took place four years ago. Today Russia has the offense--an orbiting bomb--and we have no defense!

Many changes go into effect in California vehicle code

The matter of just how much vehicle noise on California's highways is too much noise has become a part of California law, specifically, Section 23130 of the California Vehicle Code.

The new law, effective on Nov. 8, is an addition to existing law which empowers enforcement officers to make arrests, if, in their judgment, they hear a motor vehicle produce unusual or excessive exhaust noise.

Using decibles as units of measurement, the new law sets maximum limits of noise at which vehicle types may operate in posted highway speed zones either below or above 35 miles per hour. Noise from moving trucks, cars, and mototcycles will be measured by instruments set up at roadside.

Regulations setting forth the actual procedures for measuring and the instruments to be used will be established by the California Highway Patrol.

Standards set are not expected to effect the vast majority of motorists who operate their vehicles with standard equipment.

OTHER CHANGES

Of interest to a large number of drivers is a vehicle code amendment which required all vehicles other than motorcycles registered in California to have two rear view mirrors, one of which must be on the left-hand side.

Still another amendment adds the requirements for both left-and right-hand mirrors on a motor vehicle that is constructed so the driver is without a view straight back from the interior of the vehicle, or on a truck that is loaded so that the view straight to the rear is obstructed. The amendments become effective January 1, 1968.

REGISTRATION

A California vehicle registration card no longer has to be on prominent display within the vehicle, but the change specifies it must be with the vehicle and displayed upon demand by a peace officer.

In another change the driver of a car involved in an accident now will report the accident to the Department of Motor Vehicles when damages amount to $200 rather than $100.

The maximum speed limit for 3-axle trucks, school buses, farm labor buses and cars towing trailers has been increased from 50 to 55 miles per hour.

Motorists in the snow country who wish to, now will be able to use metal studded tires between Oct. 1 and May 1, at least until the amendment is reviewed by the Legislature in 1969.

However, these studded tires may not be used in lieu of tire chains when chains are required; and motorists with front wheel drive will now be able to put chains on those wheels legally when they go to the snow. The law has been amended to specify that chains must be put on "drive wheels"

All campers manufactured after Jan. 1, 1968, used on vehicles registered in California, must be equipped with safety glazing material on outside windows and doors. The new provision becomes effective on Jan. 1.

And, car dealers are now prohibited from selling any used car, 1962 model or newer, that is not equipped with at least two approved seat belts.

District high schools prepare accreditation reports

Del Mar Dateline

by Glenda Vitale

"Arsenic and Old Lace", presented by the Class of 1968 and directed by William Fisher and Jim Anderson last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights was termed a fantastic success by all those attending. Money from the play is to go for the Senior Ball and for play expenses. The goal, which was 1000 tickets, was reached and surpassed, with approximately 1,200 tickets being sold.

ACCREDITATION

"The overall student body of Del Mar is outstanding in their appearance, friendliness, behavior, seriousness, and preparation." That was the combined statement of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges Accrediting Committee, after they spent three days evaluating the students and administration of Del Mar High School.

Two suggestions given by the committee were: one or two more subjects should be required for graduation, and more money should be given the school for use as they see fit.

REDWOOD GLEN

Dennis Andrade, Tom Butler, Nancy Dorman, Shelby Douthit, Barbara Hailer, Corrinne Herrera, Peggy Lantz, Colleen Ollenberger, Judi Smith, and Beth Stuve have been chosen as counselors this year at Redwood Glen.

Redwood Glen is a science camp for local sixth graders. They spend one week at the camp and explore the plants and wildlife around it. The counselor is there primarily to guide the students and to help them in their studies.

TEEN STUDIES

Competing against other schools in cheerleader competition, the Varsity cheerleaders will attend the Teen Convention at the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds Pavilion Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p.m. It is sponsored by the First Baptist Church and is not only for competing but to gather ideas and promote spirit. The three top schools in the cheer competition will be awarded one large trophy for the winning cheerleaders.

DONS INVADE WARRIORS

The Dons went on to gain their third straight victory when they overcame the Westmont Warriors 45-7 last Friday on Del Mar's field.

This Friday Del Mar travels to Los Gatos to battle the Saratoga Falcons in the last night game of the season. Kick off time is at 8:00, and rooters busses will be provided for those Del Mar students who have Student Body cards.

FIRE SAFETY AWARDS--Students from St. Lucy's School were honored by a visit from the Campbell Fire Department recently. Chief George Maxwell commended the students for their participation in the recent Fire Prevention Essay Contest in which two St. Lucy's students won trophies.

by Pat Hebard

The score was 66 to 6 as the Campbell Buccaneers defeated the Branham Bruins last Friday afternoon on the Buc's field. Chuck Hawthorne made seven touchdowns breaking the Central Coast Counties single-game scoring record. Randy Fujishin, Gary Tomaso, and Dick Perry made the other touchdowns. This makes Campbell's seventh straight win.

The Frosh-Soph football also defeated the Bruins with a score of 21 to 4. Touchdowns were made by Bill McCall, Dave McLain and Dan Hanks.

HOOTENANNY

The Hootenanny wa held last Friday night in the cafeteria. The performers included past graduates as Wes Clark, Tom DeMartini, Barry Angell, and Gwen Davis. Gerris Elkins was "master of ceremonies".

John Brydon, Campbell High's drum major, took first place in the Veteran's Day Parade in San Jose last Saturday morning. The Pirettes also took a first place trophy. The parade was sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Other bands attending were Branham, Leigh, Lincoln, and Overfelt.

Back-to-School Night was held last week, Wednesday. Many parents came to see what school is really like today.

The first quarter of school grading has come to a close and teachers have made out the grades for the report cards.

Members of C.S.F. and Honor Society received tuberculin tests last Nov. 2. These members work in Buc's Cove in order to finance their annual San Francisco trip. Because they will be handling food, it has been required that they take the test.

The big game is next week with Blackford on our field. Sides have been switched for home games. Campbell rooters will sit on the west side cement bleachers and enter through the north gate on Hedegard Avenue. Campbell students will enter through this gate or the south gate on Campbell Avenue. The east gate in the student parking lot will be for visiting schools only.

Camden Capers

By Gayle Piech

Accreditation time is nearing, and all levels of Camden High are busy preparing reports to be turned into the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

Teachers and administrative personnel are answering specific questions, while students are filling out questionaires. Representatives from W.A.S.C. will study these reports and will visit the campus in March to evaluate its program.

Camden was last accredited in 1962, for five years, which is the maximum time a school can be accredited.

If the W.A.S.C. approves, Camden will be rated as satisfactorily providing a program that fulfills the specific objectives of the district education philosophy.

BE INFORMED!

College-bound seniors juniors, and their parents are invited to attend "college night" tonight (Nov. 15) at 7:30 p.m. in the Camden cafetorium, according to Senior Counselor Joseph Bonfiglio.

Each year this type of meeting is held to inform students and parents about college entrances, courses, and tuitions.

Speakers from various colleges will talk on their respective college. Mr. Bonfiglio will inform students and parents on scholarships and loans.

G.A.A.'ers SUCCESSFUL

Three head colds, five knees bumped on trailer hitches, forty broken fingernails, 195 clean cars, 70 wet bodies, and about $275 were the results of the annual G.A.A. car wash, according to Cathy Fernandez, chairman.

G.A.A.'ers set up equipment in the parking lot at 8:00 a.m. and worked washing cars until 6:00 p.m. Four shifts were set up to vacuum, wash, dry, and clean windows.

Profits from last year's car wash were $160.69. According to Commissioner Carol Daniels, the car wash was quite successful.

CAMDEN SPORTS

Scoring four straight touchdowns and conversions, the Camden Cougars defeated the Los Gatos Wildcats 28-19 in a night contest held last Friday at Los Gatos High.

Fullback Andy Rimbault scored the first of the four touchdowns on a 50 yard romp. The conversion was good with a pass from quarterback Rusty Thompson to end Ron Curnutt.

The Cougars then standing 7-6 fought on to make three more touchdowns and conversions. Cougars to score were: lineman Burl Wells, quarterback Rusty Thompson, and Ron Curnutt end.

Los Gatos then trailing 28-6 tallied twice more but seemed to be on the short end of a winning course.

Del Mar Sports

Del Mar's varsity football squad stomped Westmont last Friday, 45-7, while the day before, Bruce Runcie grabbed first place at the WVAL cross country finals.

The Don's win over visiting Westmont was a tribute to the Del Mar defense, holding the Warriors to 17 net yards in the first half and 97 for the game. Ed Yager stood out as Del Mar's best defensive player with a fumble recovery and a pass interception, setting Del Mar up for its fifth and sixth touchdowns.

Barry Reynolds was again Del Mar's leading ground gainer with 115 yards in 18 carries. Reynolds was responsible for Del Mar's fourth touchdown.

Quarterback Gerry Bush passed nine for 17 for 130 yards and also scored the Don's fifth touchdown.

Flashy end Don Transeth came up with five completions for 78 yards and scored Del Mar's first and third touchdowns.

Halfback Loren Toews, halfback Mike Harris, and alternate quarterback Ken Rediker were responsible for the second, sixth, and seventh touchdowns respectively.

At the WVAL cross country finals at Vasona, Bruce Runcie came through with a first, beating highly rated Russel Swift of Branham and Mario Beekes of Saratoga.

As a whole, the Del Mar varsity cross country squad didn't do too well, finishing a disappointing sixth in the league, overall, after being rated at third for most of the season.

The finals was the last meet of the year for Del Mar, except for Runcie, who will go to the regionals and the Central Coast Section.

State legislature authorizes more college scholarships

Twice as many new State Scholarships will be available to high school seniors this year as last year. A new law passed by the Legislature authorizes the State Scholarship and Loan Commission to provide approximately 5,600 new State Scholarships for use in 1968-1969.

State Scholarships are available for use at any accredited four-year college in California. The awards range from $300 to $1,500 at independent colleges and are in the amount of fees charged to students at the University of California State Colleges. Students planning at attend junior colleges may have their grants held until they attend a four-year college.

Applications may be obtained at designated times at the various high schools. Students must submit scores on the Scholarship Aptitude Test which should be taken at school on appointed days. An application must be filed with the State Scholarship and Loan Commission by Dec. 14.

Westmont Whirl

By Laura Vierra

Wednesday night was "Open House" for all parents. Each parent attended their student's daily schedule. Parents raced to get to their next class, though when late were greeted with a smile instead of a pink tardy slip.

Saturday night Teen Club held a dance featuring the "Checkerboard Squarecrows". The house was packed.

This Friday night, Nov. 17, there will be a dance sponsored by the Student Body.

Finalists for Homecoming Queen were revealed Tuesday, they are Linda Mohr, Ann Bagger, and Trevia Christendotter.

The Queen will be announced at Westmont's Homecoming Game against Leigh at Westmont, Nov. 23.

Thursday our Frosh-Soph team was victorious over the Del Mar Dons 6-0.

Friday our varsity team was defeated by the Dons 45-7.

The Warriors Marching Band performed at half-time with the Satin Dolls and Flag-Girls performing.

Our next game will be Friday against Camden at Camden. Kick off-time will be at 3:00. Westmont is still hoping for a win.

The Warrior Marching Band was invited to present the half-time entertainment at West Valley's Homecoming Game.

The new building, painted oyster white with sky blue trim, will house Juvenile Department administrators, counselors, probation officers, and office staff in its 170 rooms.

The 58,000 square foot structure was designed by San Jose architects Kress and Winston, A.I.A., and was built by the Landes Construction Co., Inc.

State to pay $87 in refund

Campbell will receive a "windfall" of $87.67 as a refund from the State Board of Equalization because the board's cost of collecting the 1% local sales and use tax is lower this year.

Campbell's "cut" was part of the $77,500 that is being distributed to California cities and counties, ranging from $13,000 for Los Angeles to two cents for Hidden Hills in that county.

San Jose in this county receives $1,438.48 while even Monte Sereno gets a bite..a total of 14 cents. Los Altos Hills receives $3.03 and Alviso, $2.32. The county's share was $515.75.

The shares for other cities in the county include, Los Gatos, $99.37; Saratoga, $17.43; Cupertino, $52.74; Gilroy, $46.35; Morgan Hill, $21.20; Palo Alto, $414.12; Santa Clara, $371.01; Los Altos, $66.96; Mountain View, $320.24; Sunnyvale, $283.93; Milpitas, $37.48.

SOCIAL SECURITY
Questions and Answers

Q. - Where do I obtain Medicare claim forms for both methods of reimbursement for doctor bills?
A. - A request for payment form which is used for both methods will be found in your Medicare Handbook. If you do not have a handbook, you may obtain one at any social security office. Each time you send in a claim, you will receive a new request for payment form from the office that pays your claim.
Q. - My wife had an operation for a broken hip in May 1966. She had a big surgeon's fee at that time. She is now in a nursing home, and her doctor visits her two or three times a month. Are her doctors' fees covered under medicare?
A. - Medicare will help pay for any doctor's service she received on or after July 1, 1966, including the doctors' visits she receives in the nursing home.
Q. - When my wife leaves the nursing home to come home, she will still need some nursing care. Is there any provision for part-time nursing care under medicare?
A. - Yes, if the doctor feels that she should receive part-time nursing care, he may request a home health agency, such as a visiting nurses' association, to send a nurse to your home to provide part-time nursing care, and medicare will cover the visits.
Q. - I have heard that once you reach a certain age, you can earn as much as you want and still get social security. Is this true?
A. - Yes, when a person reaches age 72, he will receive his social security benefits regardless of what his earnings are.
Q. - While receiving social security for the last 3 years, I have been working part time. Is it possible that my earnings from this job will increase my benefits, and how do I apply for this increase?
A. - Your additional earnings may increase your benefit, but you do not have to apply for this increase. Each year the record of each beneficiary is reviewed, and if an increase is in order it is automatically processed.

Survey shows manufacturing heads employment lists in state

More Californians are employed in manufacturing than any other industry according to the California State Chamber of Commerce. They're also earning more money, putting more of it into credit union savings than the average American.

All of these trends came from a series of economic surveys made by the State Chamber's Economic Development and Research Department.

Over one and a half million people earned their paychecks from some facet of the manufacturing industry. Los Angeles County was far in the lead, employing over 865,000 people in manufacturing followed by Santa Clara County employing approximately 119,000.

The second largest segment in the rate was involved in selling merchandise and commodities. Again Los Angeles County with 643,920 was far in the lead, followed by San Francisco with 109,493.

Santa Clara County was in sixth place in this category with 62,023. Ahead of this county were Alameda, 86,507; Orange, 81,891 San Diego, 75,086.

According to the survey there were 7,379,000 civilians working at the time of the State Chamber survey.

Fresno County led the parade in agriculture, forestry and fisheries with 68,678 with San Joaquin, Monterey, Kern, Stanislaus following in that order. Santa Clara County was in ninth place with 12,648 just behind Los Angeles County with 13,184 and Merced with 13,071.

Except for agriculture Los Angeles County predominated every category. In government for example, L.A. County employs 375,937 with San Francisco in second place with 88,561

As expected, "government" was by far the top employer in Sacramento County with 80,755 out of a total of 241,036 employed in that county. In Santa Clara County, 47,934 are engaged in governmental occupations of 355,360. In San Diego County with a lower total of employed people than Santa Clara County (349,955), there were 75,110 listed in governmental classification.

in the last stages of construction, by authorizing the installation of 10 electroliers at a cost of $3200.

In another long-delayed matter that has been years in reaching the final stages, the council approved the advertising of the bond sale for Local Improvement District No. 11, off E. Campbel Ave. and Union Ave.

The council also agreed to advance $75,000 to the district from the general fund so that the various utilities can begin their work immediately.

The city will be reimbursed when the bonds are sold but the utilities demand payment in advance.

DOWNTOWN

The future improvement of Campbell Ave. entered into the picture in still another way at Monday's meeting. The council approved by resolution the recommendation made by John Faber, chairman of the Downtown Campbell Redevelopment Committee since its formation 1961 to change his committee's name.

Based on Faber's presentation, the council dissolved the "Redevelopment" committee and officially formed a new group called the "Campbell Downtown Revitalization Committee".

Faber explained that the new committee would broaden its scope, encompassing a wider segment of interested people, and work closely with the city in all matters concerning the improvement of the downtown core.

The council approved the appointment to the new committee many of the same members of the former unit with the provision that others may be added from time to time.

Appointed officially Monday night were: Robert L. Dodge, John E. Faber, Richard Hardy, William Hedley, Dobie Jeffers, J.J. Payne, Tony Raffanti, Bill Ward, Dr. Paul A. Werthmann, Herb Gardner, Richard R. Bicker Don Kennedy, Ralph Vannucci and a representative of the County; Woman's Club yet unnamed.

BEST IN THE STATE--Recently Gov. Ronald Reagan congratulated the Campbell Fire Department for its outstanding record in fire prevention activities. The Campbell Fire Department has consistently won top honors in competition with fire departments throughout the nation. Looking over the plaque the local department recently was awarded for its 1966 achievement are, left to right, Vice Mayor Bill Smeed, Mayor Ed Rogers, Fire Chief George Maxwell and Gov. Reagan.

Dale Scott gets school budget post

Dale Scott, of 264 Radford Drive, Campbell, executive director of the Santa Clara County Taxpayers Association, has been named by the State Senate Rules Committee to serve on a commission which will change school budgeting procedures.

Scott headed an Assembly-appointed committee that recommended school budgeting procedures be overhauled so that the average citizen could better understand them.

Senator Al Alquist, who represents a major portion of Campbell in the State Senate, introduced the bill which resulted from the study and established the School District

DALE SCOTT --State Office

Program Budgeting and Accounting Commission.

Scott was a key member of the Citizens Advisory Committee in Campbell and also its successor Campbell Citizens for Progress that staged the successful campaign which resulted in the passage of four of the six city bond measures on Oct. 24.

In the preliminary study that resulted in the submission of the $3,600,000 bond issue to the voters, Scott headed the finance committee. It was his group that recommended that the $3,200,000 bond issue, plus the $400,000 library measure, was both practical and feasible for the citizens of the city.

Scott headed the community relations section of Campbell Citizens for Progress in the bond campaign.

Study session seeks pattern for future

Will the future Campbell emphasize "high rise" or single-family residential development?

What type of commercial and industrial development should be encouraged?

And what about parks?

Civic leaders and city officials will meet this evening (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock in the board room of West Valley College for the second study session on the "701" advanced planning program to seek answers to those and other questions.

Financed to a large extent by a federal grant, a planning consultant firm, headed by Charlie Cavanagh, is in the process of drafting a master plan for Campbell.

Cavanagh will conduct the session this evening which will be devoted to alternative planning policies which directly affect the future physical and economic goals of the city.

Members of the city council, planning commission, parks and recreation commission and city staff, plus representatives from the C of C, Downtown Revitalization Committee and Campbell Citizens for Progress as well as other interested citizens are expected to participate in the discussion tonight.

This will be the second such study session and another has been scheduled for next Wednesday, Nov. 22.

In the first session, Cavanagh presented background material relative to the study as well as projecting population figures for the future.

Cavanagh also submitted a number of questions to the group relative to what is desired for the community from the residential, commercial, industrial and parks and recreation point of view.

His firm needs direction, he explained, as whether a low density residential pattern should be maintained or should more intensive use of open lands be encouraged. Another question is whether specific areas be reserved for single-family or higher density developments and whether they should be concentrated or permitted in all sections.

Cavanagh also wonders if the civic leaders desire to encourage maximum commercial development and what was wanted for the Campbell Ave. business district and could urban renewal be used for that area.

He also asks whether industrial development should be concentrated and what should be the city's park policy, neighborhood or centrally located.

Cavanagh explained that his planning consultant firm plans to present definite ideas for the community development but it was also important to get direction from the civic leaders themselves as to what they want.

the various problems that were involved in police car purchasing procedures, including the point that the Plymouth dealer claimed he had not received notification, although the city records showed it had been mailed.

The low bid on Monday was submitted by Courtesy Chevrolet for a net price of $8607.92 for the four cars. Submitting higher bids were Grant Bishop (Chevrolet) and Paul Swanson (Ford).

During the discussion period, City Attorney Bonacina indicated that it was legally possible under the circumstances, in his opinion, if the council so desired, to reject all the bids and then proceed to purchase the cars on the open market.

But the councilmen felt that this would be unethical, as well as unfair to the dealers and it might jeopardise future relations with the dealers.

During the discussion many arguments were advanced as to advantages of one car over another for police use It was emphasized, however, that the cars in question were 1968 models. Thus past history and experience would be of no value in comparisons.

Although the feeling seemed to be that the new bids might not be better bargains, at least Plymouth would get into the picture and thus give the city a wider choice.

OTHER ACTION

In other action, the council authorized the city manager to execute an agreement with Hawley and Peterson, architects, to proceed with the designing of Fire Station No. 2 and William Hedley, local architect, to do the same as far as the civic center library complex was concerned.

The action was based on the passage of the bond measures on Oct. 24. The city manager was also directed to contact appraisers who will be needed in land acquisition also based on the bond measures.

It was also decided to resubmit the city's park evaluation program to the Parks and Recreation Commission for a current report.

Failure of the $850,000 parks measure to get a two-thirds majority at the polls, it was felt, might put a different light on the matter. The parks measure failed by less than three per cent.

STOP SIGNS

In other actions, the council approved additional stops signs on W. Hamilton Ave. and on Industrial St. at Kennedy and accepted improvements for two tracts north of Latimer at Marathon.

At the request of Councilman Charlie Rose, it was decided to place on the agenda for the next meeting, discussion on the staff's report made in answer to Rose's charges that the city was over-staffed.

The council also adopted an ordinance allowing the city to collect a stamp tax on real property transactions based on a similar county action.

PTA NEWS

PTA Council hears talk by Chief of Police

Obscenity, pornography, narcotics, L.S.D., the ever present problems facing today's parents were discussed at the October meeting of El Paradiso Council of the Parent Teachers Association.

Campbell Chief of Police John D. Morgan was host to the group at a special showing of the latest film on drugs. The meeting was held at the Campbell City Hall and Police Station. Morgan pointed out that there were 46 drug arrests so far this year and 38 were juvenile offenders.

He urges parents to:

1. Know your children. Know his assets and build them.

2. Look at the problems he exhibits. Read what these exhibits of misbehavior mean.

3. Don't take over your children's problems. Help them, guide them, but don't solve them.

4. Use reasonable discipline.

5. Let them express themselves, but rights have limitations.

Morgan further stated: "Individual citizens must take the responsibility of controlling crime by first showing youth "family life." Make sure there is a good relationship between husband and wife. Be concerned with the way our schools are operated, they must be the best. We must speak out to store owners who carry filth on their book shelves. Letters to the Editor

VACANT LOTS

Dear Editor:

About the Trash in Vacant Lots Problem:

1st) Your Own Place-if every resident, every businessman, took the trash off the front of his own place every day, it would lessen the total. I live on a corner of a very heavily trafficed road.

Early every morning I pick up the papers, drink cans, gum, cigarette and candybar wrappers on the two sides of my corner. The whole operation never takes more than 90 seconds.

2nd) Volunteer Groups-why can't Boy Scout Troops get Merit Badges for Civic Work like clearing eye-sore vacant lots? This is surely more closely related to The Good Life than some of their other projects?

3rd(

3rd) City Workers--Trash collects among weeds. In Los Altos where I lived for 27 years, the Fire Department posts printed signs "Notice to Destroy Weeds" on all property where our rainless summers would make dry grass a hazard.

The owner is given notice on these signs that if he does not comply by a certain time, the Fire Department will burn off the rubbish for him and send him a bill for their work. If he does not pay, this cost is added to his tax bill.

So Los Altos is a beautiful, desireable place to live and do business? So what about Campbell?

Sincerely yours,
Leonora C. Hering
(Mrs. P.T.)
